WHAT THEY SAID ABOUT

"FRINGE FEST HAS FUTURE IN NYC".

VARIETY

"It encompasses the underfunded and the misunderstood, as well as the independent, the innovative and the inspired... one show after another of weird, wild and definitely diverse fare."

Mel Gussow

THE NEW YORK TIMES

"A nourishing crop of plays for families cast FringeNYC as the cultural savior of the city's kiddies as well as their parents."

THE VILLAGE VOICE

"For those who prefer their comedy with a twist rather than straight up, The New York International Fringe Festival is bringing 12 days of the unusual, the absurd and the hilarious to 21 theaters in and around the Lower East Side...It's a veritable motherlode of alternative comedy, and some performances...gleefully defy definition."

TIME OUT NY

"The range of shows is mind-boggling...A chance to see some of the newest, strangest, most exciting dance around."

NEW YORK CITY SEARCH

"An exceedingly worthwhile venture, one which most emphatically deserves to be repeated in future summers."

THE IRISH ECHO

"Was a human being meant to be this entertained?"

Peter Marks

THE NEW YORK TIMES

"A virtual orgy of artists...There's something for everyone - new musicals, performance art, cabaret shows, stand-up comedy and dance..."

NEXT

"A vibrant gallery of performance art, crude and polished, primitive and post-modern has settled the questions of whether a festival of drama in its rawest forms could make a mark in such a theater-saturated town...a crash refresher course in the intimacy and spontaneity that drain away so rapidly from grander theatrical ventures...a mirror on the culture."

Peter Marks

THE NEW YORK TIMES

"BRAVO TO ALL INVOLVED."

THE DAILY NEWS

"Promising to become a yearly Lower East Side staple."

BACKSTAGE

"A thinking man's vaudeville."

NEW YORK SIDEWALK

"This two week performance event is like no other"

NYC TRAVEL GUIDE

"May just change the way New Yorkers think about theatre".

OFF, A JOURNAL OF ALTERNATIVE THEATRE

"The First Annual Fringe Festival has a little something for everyone, and that includes great performances for kids."

NEW YORK POST

"The New York International Fringe Festival has something for everyone".

TIME OUT NY

"A veritable feast."

NEWSDAY

"A demolition derby for the mind, the festival shatters pre-conceptions and provides us with the turn of mind to see it all unfold"

ARTBEAT

"(FringeNYC) should be a regular part of New York's theatre calendar in years to come."
